July Grand Jury returns indictments in 62 cases

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County July

Grand Jury, after considering 73 cases, has returned 62 indictments and eight no true bills.

The Grand Jury also commented on reports presented by various county officials.

The names of those indicted are not released until the indictments can be served on those people. A list of those already served was not yet available at the Hancock County Sheriff's office Friday afternoon.

A no true bill of indictment means that there is not enough evidence to support the charges against the person involved in the case.

No true bills were declared for Terry Jay Jones, originally charged with rape; Michael Ragus, who had been charged with murder in connection with the death of his father, whose slaying the Grand Jury found to be self-defense; Shane Gros in an aggravated assault case; and Joe Goodman and Eddie Langlois, whose larceny charges in connection with an alleged copper wire theft were considered as a single case.

The Grand Jury also returned no true bills for Rickey Joseph Bradley, Paul Clifton Morrison and Solvation Services, Inc.

The text of the report, submitted to Judge Kosta Vlahos last week and including the jurors' summary of the officials' reports, follows below.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF HANCOCK COUNTY MISSISSIPPI FINAL REPORT OF THE JULY 1989 GRAND JURY

TO THE HONORABLE KOSTA N. VLAHOS, CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE:

We, the July 1989 Grand Jury of Hancock County, Mississippi, having been selected, sworn, empanelled and charged, respectfully submit this, our Final Report.

We were empanelled on July 5, 1989 and were in session July 5, July 6, and July 7, 1989, and considered 73 cases. We have returned 62 True Bills and 8 No Bills. We have passed one case to the next Grand Jury, and two cases were docketed in error.

ON PATROL

CORNER ARREST

A Bay St. Louis man has been arrested on drug charges in the ongoing effort to halt drug traffic and drug related crimes at the corner of Sycamore and St. Frances Streets.

Damien Samuel Maurice, 28, 516 St. Frances St., was arrested by Bay St. Louis Police Monday and charged with possession of a controlled substance, according to a Bay Police narcotics officer.

Maurice had been under surveillance since a June 30th police roundup, during which drug paraphernalia in his pocket contained traces of a controlled substance, the officer said. Maurice was picked up at the corner after issuance of a warrant for his arrest, signed by Patrolman David Parker, the officer said.

According to the officer, the substance confiscated in Maurice's arrest was identified as cocaine by the Mississippi Crime Lab.

Public comment sought on new county landfill

BY DENA BISNETTE

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Mobile District, and the Mississippi Department of Natural Resources Bureau of Pollution Control are inviting public comment on a permit application for the county's proposed new sanitary landfill.

Anyone who wishes to comment must refer to public notice no. MS89-00815-1 and, in time for the letter to be received by Aug. 26, write to District engineer, U.S. Army Engineer District, Mobile, Post Office Box 2288, Mobile, AL 36628-0001, attention: regulatory branch.

A copy of the comments may also be sent to Mississippi Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Pollution Control, Post Office Box 10385, Jackson, MS 39209.

The landfill is proposed for a site adjacent to the county's existing trash site at Standard. It will replace the landfill at Catahoula, closed earlier this year.

The new site consists of about 100 acres of land, including about 12 acres classified as wetlands.

A public notice issued by the two agencies this week states, "It is the filling associated with these 12 acres which necessitates this public notice."

"Essentially, the applicant (Hancock County) proposes to use the existing wetlands to establish interior storm drainage and provide collection and treatment of leachate."

The term leachate refers to liquids produced by decay of the household garbage to be buried in the landfill. Current regulations require that specific types and depths of clay be present on a site to be used for this type of landfill, because the clay is used to form a seal to keep leachates from seeping into groundwater.

The permit application has been filed in compliance with Section 401 of the Clean Water Act. The waterway involved in the wetlands area is known as Orphan Creek, which is a tributary of Bayou Bacon and the Jourdan River.

According to County Maintenance Superintendent Sam Cuevas, the leachate collection system is a feature that the Catahoula landfill did not have. At first, the leachate from the new facility will be drained into a manhole and sent to the Waveland Regional Wastewater Management District for treatment.

A more extensive leachate collection system and storage pond will be constructed in the second and third phases of the three-phase landfill construction project.

Compton Engineering, the firm doing the preliminary design work needed to obtain the necessary permits, has notified Cuevas that procedures for certain state documents are proceeding according to schedule.

Despite already having a preliminary design, only very broad estimates of the construction costs of the landfill have been discussed, Cuevas added. Usable estimates are not usually made on this kind of project until after permits are obtained.

Whatever that cost is, Cuevas expects the new landfill to ultimately save money for the public.

Currently, the county pays a private firm about $8,000 per month to operate a dumpster system. Dumpsters for household garbage have been placed in various locations, with disposal of the garbage being part of the contractor's responsibilities.

The system has been in use since about January, when the board approved closing the Catahoula landfill to the public.

The only work being done at the old landfill is to comply with closure requirements. That work has been delayed to some degree due to rainfall, Cuevas said.

The old landfill falls under an older set of state and federal regulations than the new one at Standard, which will have to be monitored more strictly and for a longer time after each section is closed.

Sections of the new facility will be trenched to prepare it to receive garbage in sections, rather than all at once, the maintenance superintendent added.

BSLLT children's project to stage comedy Aug. 4-5

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre will present the comedy, "When the Nerds Bit Beverly Hills," Aug. 4 and 5 at the Boardman Avenue Playhouse.

The highly costumed comedy by Cynthia Mercati begins at 8 p.m. each night and features a cast of children from seven to 16 years old.

The show is the end result of a summer children's theatre project in which about 30 participants attended workshops on costumes and make-up, stage directions and theatre terms, voice and movement and theatre history.

Marie Bernard, who is directing the play, coordinated and directed the project with assistants from Amy Harrison, Betty Ladner, Lois Wiltz and Dena Bisnette.

Tickets for the performances are priced at $2 for adults and $1 for children and will be available at the theatre lobby.

Supervisors approve proposal for long-range development

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Hancock County Board of Supervisors, on a split vote, has approved a proposal for preparation of a comprehensive development plan for the county.

According to Board President Ronald Cuevas, the plan is to cover all aspects of development, ranging from the attraction of new jobs and industry to property use and zoning.

He expects it to take at least a year for the agency chosen by the board, Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District (SMPDD), to prepare the plan.

Implementation will be a long-term project and is one of the eight goals set when the first three of the current supervisors took office.

The supervisors approved SMPDD's proposal, priced at $34,680, on a recommendation from the county planning commission. The recommendation was presented by Commission President Wayne Ducomb Sr. and attorney John Scaife Jr.

The commission had reviewed proposals from Gulf Regional Planning Commission, Eaton and Associates, Michael Reeves and Continental Consultants, Inc., in addition to SMPDD.

Scaife said comparing proposals was difficult because of the wide variety of options proposed. PROPOSAL—Page 2A report from Mike Necaise, Hancock County Chancery Clerk. He reported that the County should finish the current fiscal year, either at budget or with a small surplus.

The next budget fiscal year which begins in October has money targeted for several projects, including a new all purpose building which will house, among other things, the Department of Human Services. Mr. Necaise stated that a small raise in taxes will take place in the coming fiscal year. The bulk being in the form of higher ad valorem taxes. Also, $1,400,000 in bonds will be spent to resurface selected roads throughout the county.

Finally, Mr. Necaise stated that several industries are currently considering locating in Hancock County. These industries could create several hundred jobs.

TAX ASSESSOR/ COLLECTOR

Tax Assessor and Collector Edward Murtagh announced that he would discuss his office's functions, which he listed as "tax assessing, homestead exemptions, tax collections and E-911."

Regarding assessments, he reported that his office maintains files on around 40,000 properties with an assessed value of $140 million. Assisting in this area of responsibility is a sophisticated mapping system compiled by means of aerial photography. Murtagh said that, in addition, each deed is read annually.

Murtagh explained that his office also determines the amount of homestead exemption allowable for each taxpayer, noting that the maximum is $6,000.

Murtagh stated that his office collects approximately $11 million per year in taxes.

Regarding the E-911 system, Murtagh stated that the entire county will be on it "eventually."

He explained that his office had been chosen for the work because of its records of the properties.

He said that a numbering system had been started in the northern part of the county and that eventually every work-place or residence will be given a number so that it can be identified by an E-911 operator whether the caller says anything or not. At that time, if the caller is able to identify the emergency, the appropriate agencies will respond. However, if the caller "drops dead beside the phone," fire, law enforcement and medical teams would all respond, though apparently not the coroner.

To the duties originally listed, Murtagh added the fact that his office "took on" the computer system for the county. He said that the system is "backed up" daily and weekly, with copies of electronic records distributed to the appropriate county offices. He said that the system has "many problems," particularly with lightning.

In conclusion, Murtagh described his office as "wonderful," and his staff as "dedicated professionals." He said that he received few complaints except over high taxes.

SCHOOLS

Terry Randolph, Superintendent of Hancock County Schools reported the following:

The state is divided into townships equaling 36 sq. miles respectively. Each township has within its area one or more 16 section lands. These 16 section lands may be in the nature of agriculture, commercial, residential, forestry, fishing, hunting, or minerals. The latter produce the most money for schools which help to offset property taxes.

Upon completion of the new high school—opening date targeted for July 1990—weather permitting, will have 83 rooms.

The old North Central school will become an elementary school, grades K-6 (800 students). The present 18 trailers will be removed. Foreign language will be taught at the third grade level.

Hancock County schools are the fastest growing in the state, and although the latest Jr. Competency test results are in the 98 percentile—highest on the Coast, still 30 percent do not finish.

Education should be our main objective in order that future youths will be able to keep abreast of the opportunities at hand.

MISSISSIPPI*FORESTRY COMMISSION

Mark Jamieson reported that one of the jobs of the Forestry Commission is to control forest fires. Last year there were 225 fires with 2,118 acres burned. This number was down from the previous year, partly because of the wet weather. The Forestry Commission offers management advice to private land owners and private home owners, manages forestry on all section 16 land, plants trees and are available for Civil Defense duties. Since arson causes most forest fires and is hard to prove, the Grand Jury recommends that the Commission investigate offering a reward to a person turning in someone who commits arson. Said rewards should be well-publicized if available.

DEPARTMENT*OF HUMAN SERVICES

On July 7, 1989, we, the Grand Jury, inspected the facilities of the Department of Human Services (formerly the Hancock County Department of Public Welfare.)

The Oct. 13 Grand Jury had cited a number of faults including the poor condition of the building, its filth and the safety and fire hazard which it poses.

We found these conditions largely unchanged and consider this fact inexcusable.

Furthermore it has come to our notice that a health hazard may exist in the amount of mold and other respiratory irritants in the work space.

We were told that work on the new building is being held up totally pending a matching grant, which will not be decided on until November.

The Grand Jury does not consider the value of the prospective grant to be adequate justification for the County's ongoing dereliction of this public disgrace.

JUSTICE FACILITY

On July 7, 1989 we, the Grand Jury, toured the Hancock County Justice facility. It was noted that the upper floor cell area was still not air conditioned but that the heat was not intolerable even though the day was hot and humid. It was also noted that there were many fans located in the cells.

The Sheriff and the jailers stressed the economy of the jail operation due to monies received for the housing of up to 30 federal prisoners and the operation of the farm which provides much of the food used by the jail inmates.

It is felt that the jail is adequate to meet the needs of Hancock County at this time and for the immediate future.

There is a need to complete the relocation of all communications equipment including the antennae from the courthouse area to the new jail area. We feel that a contingency plan needs to be developed for the funding of the jail should the federal prisoner program be curtailed.

COUNTY FARM

On July 7, 1989, the Grand Jury toured the County Farm administered by the Hancock County Sheriff's Department. The tour included an excellent lunch prepared by inmate trustees who work at the farm.

The farm produces various livestock (catfish and hogs) and crops, including red potatoes, corn, okra, tomatoes, snap beans, butter beans and cantaloupe (which is currently being eaten by deer). In order that the farm not be in competition with local commercial farmers, food not used by the Jail is not sold, but is donated to senior citizens, county schools and the food pantry. The farm also offers informal training to inmates in areas such as agriculture and machinery repair.

We, the Grand Jury, ask the Court to declare us in recess at this time subject to recall at a later date if necessary.

This the 17th day of July, 1989.

sible, with Ducomb adding that the first thing the project is expected to provide is an accurate, updated map of the county.

Scaife also said there is no way to confine the cost of the project to the amount of the contract, no matter which proposal was chosen, because additions may have to be made to the project itself as it progresses.

Beat Three Supervisor Lisa Coward, the only supervisor who voted against the commission recommendation, said she was voting against the agency chosen and not the project itself.

Saying that she agrees to the need for a long-range comprehensive development plan, she stated that she favored the Gulf Regional proposal because the price quoted was about $4,600 less.

RELIGION

Reflections On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

It sounds very corny to invite people to be the Yes of God; yet, it is one of the realest, most meaningful and most challenging invitations we could ever make to anyone. In fact, if you do not consider yourself the Yes of God, at least in some measure, you are beyond doubt in deep trouble as a Christian.

Being the Yes of God does entail necessary surgery, a painful excision of everyone or everything which says no to God. The prospect of this painful excision is enough to scare off many people who would want to be the Yes of God, but at a cheaper price.

Unfortunately, there is no cheaper price. If it pains you considerably to dump some or all of the people or things which say no to God, it is a pain which you must endure. The toughest thing about disassociating yourself from the rotten people in your life is that they are frequently the most exciting people.

Too many people who are, for the most part, the Yes of God are veritable sticks in the mud, too drab to attract anyone toward the peace and joy of the kingdom. Contrariwise, too many people who say no to God by their lives are the charmers whose presence, style and conversation many like and pursue.

By the same token, the things which help us form our mouth to say no to God are the very things which have the hypnotic fascination of Eden's forbidden fruit. Sometimes, they seem to be the only things which are interesting, while everything else is dull.

These are the hot items in novels, in newspapers, in periodicals, in tabloids, and in the scuttlebutt of beauty salons, barber shops and living rooms. to discharge their duties and services with little or no recognition at home, at school, at church, at work, at play or on the street.

Corniest of all is Jesus who is the prototype Yes of God. All that he thought, said and did was a yes to God. If we imitate him, the quality of humanness of our life will be full and wholesome.

These are the things for which the selfish, the greedy and the avaricious pour out their time and energies.

And what are these things in particular? That is no secret, no mystery to anyone.

Each of us knows well he/his own demons, although we may be a bit slow to admit which they are. It could be nicotine, alcohol, one of the other drugs, unbridled avarice or the use and abuse of others through self-centered sex.

It could just as well be the slavery of things not always labeled demons: arrogance; any gossip, especially of the malicious variety; racial hatred; sexism and chauvinism; jealousy and envy; disrespect for unborn life; negative, destructive criticism of others; physical and emotional abuse of others.

Be corny, if that is what people will call you when you show yourself to be the Yes of God. Say yes to everything God promises and wants by following the Golden Rule of Jesus; in short, simply by following the words, the life and the trial of Jesus himself.

Corny by those standards is Mother Theresa of Calcutta, who devotes virtually all of her waking hours to prayer and to the direct service of her most unfortunate sisters and brothers: the street people of India who are homeless, sick and dying.

Just as corny are the countless unknown, faceless, unpublishicized social workers, missionaries and volunteers who burn most of their life's candle saying yes to God's will for the unfortunate, the unchurched and those who have not heard the Good News.

Corny also, and almost a closet Yes of God, are the billions of people who do their best

Waveland Latter-day Saints to broadcast leader's message

President Ezra Taft Benson, world leader of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will be honored July 30 during a special program commemorating his 90th birthday anniversary.

EZRA TAFT BENSON

The program, beginning at 7 p.m. will originate in the Tabernacle on Salt Lake City's Temple Square, and will be televised live via satellite to gatherings at more than 2,000 church centers in the U.S., Canada and Puerto Rico, including the local chapel at McLauren and Nicholson Avenue in Waveland.

Featured will be messages from President Benson's associates in the First Presidency of the Church and from his family. Music for the occasion will be furnished by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir.

President Benson was born Aug. 4, 1899 in the southeast Idaho town of Whitney. He was educated at Brigham Young University and Iowa State College and pursued a career in agricultural administration that eventually led to service as U.S. Secretary of Agriculture during the eight-year administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

His agricultural career was interrupted in 1943 when he was called to be a member of the church's quorum of Twelve Apostles, and in 1985 he was ordained as the 13th president of the church.

Expected to be on hand for the birthday commemoration is his wife of nearly 63 years, Flora Amussen Benson, together with their six children and many of their numerous grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

NEUROLOGICAL DISORDERS

Two baffling neurological disorders, Parkinson's disease and Huntington's disease, are examined Tuesday, Aug. 8 on Mississippi ETV.

At 7:30 p.m., 'Innovation' looks at Parkinson's disease, a degenerative disorder afflicting an estimated 500,000 Americans, most of whom are over 50. 'A Neurological Mystery' profiles the stepped-up efforts of medical researchers to determine the cause and find a cure for this debilitating disease.

"I'd Like To Join Mobile Medic
But The Campaign Ends Today
And I Don't Get Paid Until Next Week."

Relax.

We realize that many of you are on fixed incomes.

That's why we've decided to accept Mobile Medic Memberships for another week. As long as we receive your check or money order by next Monday, August 7, 1989, you'll be included as a Mobile Medic Member for the upcoming year.

Mobile Medic puts a cap on emergency ambulance expenses.

Your Mobile Medic Membership protects you and your family for a whole year with ambulance service 24-hours a day, 7 days a week.

And the cost of a membership -- which includes you, your spouse, and all your unmarried children under the age of twenty-one who live at home -- is an incredibly low $42 a year.

Mobile Medic covers your family in South Mississippi.

Our expanded service area includes all of Harrison, Hancock, Jackson, Forrest, Lamar, and Pearl River Counties. This coverage, which costs you nothing extra, makes a Mobile Medic Membership even more valuable than before.

This is your last chance to join.

After this week, we won't accept memberships for another year. That's why you need to be sure to get your membership in by Monday, August 7, 1989.

Give your family the year round protection of Mobile Medic. Call today.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I have already renewed my Mobile Medic Ambulance Service's membership for another year.

The membership campaign is only for the month of July each year and after this week, Mobile Medic will not accept memberships for another year.

In case you have forgotten to mail in your membership renewal or new membership, you have until Monday, August 7, 1989 to get it to Mobile Medic's office in Gulfport.

If you need information for a membership, just dial toll-free 1-868-1126.

A family or individual never knows when they may need ambulance service because sickness and accidents happen at the least expected times.

A family membership only costs $42 a year, a small amount compared to the cost of ambulance transportation for only one call.

A membership with Mobile Medic covers a family in Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Forrest, Lamar and Pearl River Counties, and includes service for husband, wife and unmarried children under age 21 at home.

Mobile Medic's ambulances have visited every street and road across Hancock County and make runs every day for persons in need of medical emergency transportation.

I hope you never need the service, but if you do and have a membership, it saves you so many dollars.

I would like to issue a birthday wish to my mother who celebrated her 82nd on Friday.

She is unable get about as much as she would like too, and one of the things she misses more than anything is her active involvement with the American Legion Auxiliary, especially the parties with the veterans.

In her years as a teenage and adult resident of Waveland, she has seen many changes made in Hancock County.

Happy birthday Mother and I wish you many more.

A landmark, of sorts, no longer exists in Bay St. Louis.

I am talking about the large palm tree between Merchants Bank and the railroad tracks, on Beach Boulevard.

During a small windstorm this past week, the palm tree tumbled down, a victim probably of old age.

As long as I can remember, the palm tree always seemed to have been very large and old. I just wonder how old it really was.

There may be someone around who can remember when the tree was planted or have been told by a parent or grandparent.

I know there were many sparrows who raised families over the years in the protection offered by the fronds of that majestic palm tree.

I am hoping someone will replace the palm with another of the same variety.

We have some young sailors from the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club who will be sailing a long way from home for the next few days.

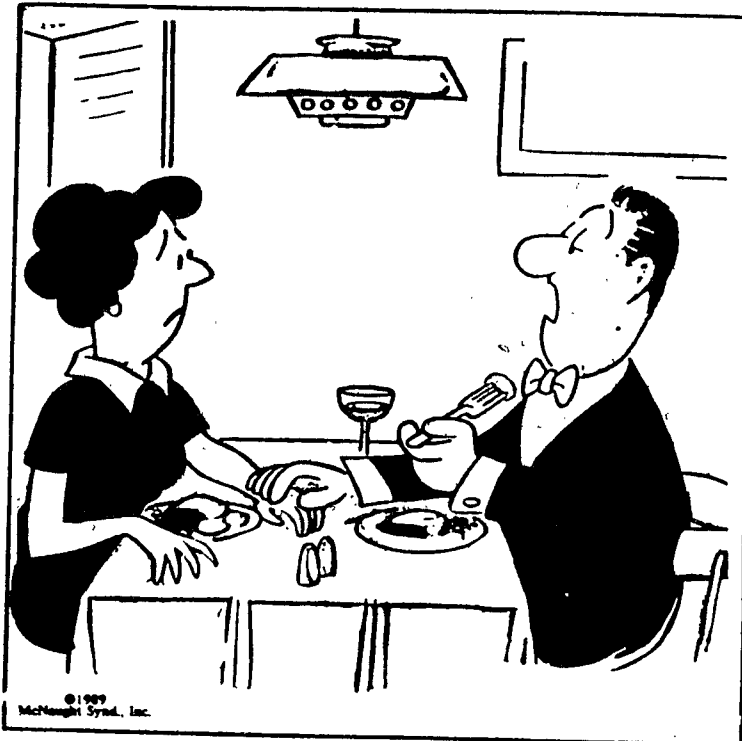

Caroline Weems and Mallory Mestayer will be competing in the Seventh European Optimist Sailing Championship in Nynashann, Sweden July 31-August 5.

I wish the young sailors good luck in representing the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club so far away from home.

Young sailors from Bay-Waveland, Sanders Kane and Alan Uram are now competing in the 15-and-under division of the Long Island Sound Optimist Championships at Stamford, Conn.

On Monday they will be joined by brothers Chad and Scott Renken to go to Newport, R.I. to compete in the United States National Championship.

I wish the six young sailors the best in the competition.

A trip to remember

A funny thing happened in Paris this month where leaders of the seven major industrial nations gathered for the 15th annual Economic Summit.

As expected, the group discussed issues like economics and trade, but unexpected was their discussion and decision-making on other items like drugs and the environment.

Few were surprised to see the leaders, including President George Bush, declare the free-world economy in healthy shape. While past conferences have had to deal with interest rates and inflation, this meeting centered on sustaining economic growth.

Among other proposals, the group agreed to "promote measures in order to remove inefficiencies in our economies...Tax reforms, modernization of financial markets, strengthening of competition policies and reducing rigidities in all sectors including energy, industry and agriculture."

They also agreed to improve education and vocational training, transportation and distribution systems aimed at "giving more flexibility and mobility to the labor market and reducing unemployment."

In the area of trade, the seven major industrialized democracies strongly reaffirmed their determination to fight protectionism in all its forms, calling it a "real threat" to economic prosperity.

The Big Seven stated that the drug problem has reached devastating proportions and urged decisive action.

They want to intensify the exchange of information on the prevention of addiction, and rehabilitation of drug addicts. They would like to give greater emphasis on bilateral and United Nations programs for the conversion of illicit cultivation in the countries now producing illegal drugs. And they would like to strengthen support for the efforts of these countries who ask for assistance to counter illegal production of trafficking.

Some of the group's strongest language came in the area of the environment. "In this connection, we ask all countries to combine their efforts in order to improve observation and monitoring on a global scale...to preserve the global ecological balance." Calling on industry, the leaders urged better pollution prevention, waste minimization, energy conservation and cleaner more cost-effective technologies. The group pledged greater cooperation and solicited the help of other countries toward this environmental effort.

The conference didn't last long. In fact, it ended ahead of schedule, but this meeting, like other similar ones, proves once again that when world leaders are willing to cooperate, problems of any magnitude, can be solved.

WASHINGTON REPORT

By Senator Thad Cochran

Senator meets with agriculture secretary on Mississippi floods

Senator Thad Cochran has met with Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter to discuss disaster relief for Mississippi farmers suffering from recent rain and flooding.

Cochran urged the secretary to make available all possible assistance to farmers in the state who have been hurt by the heavy rain and floods of recent weeks.

"I have asked the secretary to evaluate his authority to help provide any relief possible to our farmers," the senator said following the meeting with Yeutter at the Capitol.

State officials have requested that at least 18 Mississippi counties, primarily in the Delta and North Mississippi, be declared disaster areas and eligible for relief.

"We are urging the administration to act promptly on this request," the senator said.

Bureau Federation, testified at the hearing about the flood damage Mississippi farmers have received.

Cochran said he has been informed by Mississippi State University agriculture analysts that about 250,000 acres of cropland are currently under water.

He said these specialists are continuing to assess the economic impact of the flooding on major crops such as cotton, rice and soybeans.

"This analysis of the seriousness of the economic impact will be provided to the secretary of agriculture to help him understand the magnitude of our problem," the senator said.

The Senate Agriculture Committee had scheduled a hearing Thursday, July 13 on a disaster relief bill. Don Waller, president of the Mississippi Farm

If Mississippi wants jobs, they have to be sought

If we want to create jobs and income for Mississippians, we can't sit around and wait for business to come to us—we've got to go after it.

Mississippi has done just that during the past 18 months. We have infused new life into our drive to make Mississippi a serious player in the world marketplace. The Far East—one of the fastest growing and powerful economic regions in the world—is showing great interest in Mississippi. And we are targeting other key potential trade regions such as Europe for attention in the near future.

Our state cannot, however, ignore economic development opportunities right here in this country. That is why my office and the state Department of Economic and Community Development have undertaken an ambitious program to zero in on crucial centers of business in the United States.

We have just returned from a successful economic development trip to California, which, if it were a country, would have one of the largest economies in the world. Our efforts focused on two areas—the high-technology aerospace industry and the film industry.

We met with top officials of Lockheed/Aerjet, strengthening our ties with the organization hired by NASA to operate the space shuttle's Advanced Solid Rocket Motor Plant in Tishomingo County.

The aerospace industry's investment in Mississippi is significant—from Iuka to the Coast—and the potential is unlimited. This is a case where Mississippi must truly reach for the stars.

It is true that when quality really counted, NASA looked to Mississippi. That is an asset we can use over and over, in Cali-development. With hard work, that is a winning combination. Florida and other centers of high technology.

California is also renowned for another industry—movie making. We know from experience that there is big money in movie making, and that money creates income and jobs for Mississippians. States fight hard to attract movies for on-location filming, and for good reason. Mississippi needs to be in that fight.

We met with top executives of four major movie companies. These executives know Mississippi, like Mississippi and have done business here before. By maintaining and strengthening our ties with these companies, we can help make sure that they do business with Mississippi again.

California has not been the sole focus of economic development targeting within the United States. We have conducted similar economic development missions in Chicago and New York, and we will travel to St. Louis next month to target business prospects there. Other similar trips are being planned to recruit business in places such as Ohio and Pennsylvania.

We must not only recruit business but also strengthen the bond with businesses already investing in Mississippi. Whether it's Lockheed in California and Bryan Foods in Chicago, we must continue to build the good working relationships that have developed with our state.

Attracting business to Mississippi—and keeping business in Mississippi—is hard work, and it requires us to go into the corporate board rooms of the nation and the world.

Mississippi has a plan and we are looking ahead in economic

Better rural fire protection reduces insurance rates, deaths

There's a move underway as a result of a 1988 state law to put better fire protection in Mississippi out at the crossroads. Already there's some indication it is paying off in terms of reduced rural fire insurance rates and fewer fire deaths.

For years, Mississippi has had the highest number of fire deaths per capita in the nation and two-thirds of the fire deaths occurred in rural areas.

After averaging around 135 fire deaths per year, in 1988 there were 119 deaths in Mississippi, 13 percent fewer than the previous year. But even at that, Mississippi still averaged 47.6 deaths per 1 million population, about twice the 23.9 national average.

The 1988 Legislature had passed House Bill 693, which started out primarily as a measure to increase the amount of insurance premium taxes going to the counties for fire protection from $1.6 million to $4.45 million a year.

Along the way, the conditions for the counties getting the money were tightened. Each county was required to appoint a county fire coordinator to serve as a liaison with the state Commissioner of Insurance.

Also, they must designate a member of the sheriff's department as county arson investigator to be trained in arson investigation at the State Fire Academy.

Then, effective October 1, 1989 in order to get the state funds each county will be required to levy at least 1 mill in any legally established fire protection district and at least one-fourth mill in areas outside such districts.

Up until last year, only eight or 10 counties had levied any fire protection millage, bringing in only $250,000. Last year, the number of counties levying a fire protection tax increased to 34 bringing in over $1 million.

Ray Gildea, who has been appointed state fire coordinator by Insurance Commissioner George Dale, expects practically all of the counties to meet the Oct. 1 deadline for levying the fire tax.

"Some counties at this point are reluctant to levy the millage, but we know of no county which has categorically refused," Gildea said.

If any county refuses to levy the tax, he said, "they really can't receive the state money...the law is very clear on that. Several counties are trying real hard not to believe that, but there just doesn't seem to be any loophole."

A big part of Gildea's job is working with county fire coordinators and county arson investigators to carry out their jobs and meet guidelines established by the Commissioner of Insurance.

Statewide, there are some 10,000 volunteer fire-fighters, representing 80 percent of all the fire-fighters in the state. There are only two dozen full-time paid fire departments and three dozen part-time paid departments.

In all, there are some 200

Disposable society causes worries about pollution

It's a good thing I don't do as much research on pollution as I did when I was younger. I'd worry myself to death.

The first thing is, I'm talking about pollution. I am not talking about littering or illegal dumping of garbage, construction debris or old furniture in unauthorized places, although these contribute to the problem. I'm talking about the little invisible things.

I'm talking about whatever it is that gets into air conditioner filters if they aren't cleaned from time to time and makes your sinuses go into open rebellion.

I'm talking about the stuff you flush down your toilet bowl everytime you clean it, the stuff that goes out the drainpipe with the laundry water and the little bit of particles of stuff that go off with the rainwater whenever the old, abandoned automobile begins to decay.

Some of these compounds are perfectly natural, like rust, and aren't any more harmful than the chemicals given off by the decaying leaves around the magnolia trees.

Some of these chemicals are man-made and I used to wonder what they would do.

I've written enough stories about county landfills, chemical spills and sewerage projects over the past eight years to know that Mother Nature never intended for these things to get into certain places and that she suffers a loss every time man-made pollutants get into her environment.

If I took everything I wrote personally, particularly in the area of pollution, I'd be nutty as a fruitcake right now.

I'd read the labels of all the processed food I ate, if I didn't stop eating processed food, and then I'd be concerned that the vegetables I grew myself wouldn't be pure because the dirt might already be contaminated.

Any water that came out of the faucet would be suspect, in case the plumbing of the house should recontaminate the water the city had worked so hard to purify. The rainwater might be contaminated due to air pollution, so I would probably have to travel to get to artesian wells when I could—then boil the water in the cleanest dishes possible before I could drink it.

I'd also probably remove all rugs, carpets and upholstery in my house and replace these items with natural materials, and then vacuum the daylight out of them every time I got the chance.

I'd be wearing only natural fabrics colored with natural dyes, some of which are a pain in the neck to keep clean and ironed, and would be cleaning with baking soda and that sort of thing.

This kind of obsessive behavior might make me less contaminated than other people, but it would be expensive, time-consuming and nutty.

I can do a few things to make myself more comfortable and improve my little corner of the world, but don't ask me to take on the welfare of the whole world because I'm more realistic than to try that.

To help with the pollution problem, I'd rather recycle those things that are recyclable and avoid using things that come in spray cans, which I don't like anyway because they make weird noises.

And what about buying things that last? I try to do that, but it's hard sometimes because many consumer items aren't made that way anymore. "Consume" is the key part of the word consumer, and we are a throwaway society to such a large extent that goods aren't permanent anymore.

(These days, throwaway items include a lot more than just goods. Look at all the throwaway marriages, abandoned kids and dumped-off pets the big newspapers work into statistical stories.)

People used to have possessions they left to their kids. With a little care, things could last many years. These days, if you want something durable, you may have to go to a second-hand shop and buy something 30 years old or older.

Maybe the chemicals that are supposed to clean and preserve the new things don't work, but that isn't likely. Even mass production is not the key to the problem; I've purchased some used but mass-produced products which have held up quite well.

I think the key is what people expect to get—if they expect something which can be used for a time and then thrown away, like a tissue instead of a fabric handkerchief which can be washed and used again and again, manufacturers will start providing such things. To do so is only following the laws of supplies and demands.

To make more disposable items, though, releases more garbage into the environment. In my opinion, it also makes people a little more careless. Nobody has to worry about breaking or damaging anything now because new things are readily available.

What do you want, convenience or less pollution?

I may limit how much I personally consider the material I write about, but I just wrote about a trend I don't like at all.

It doesn't matter, I suppose. Most people will throw this newspaper away when they finish reading it anyway.

"Legal fire districts in the state now and an estimated 150 in the process of being formed. Some counties have 12 or more districts. To be a legal district, the boundaries must be not more than four road miles from a fire station.

Creating a fire district is a key step in lowering insurance rating classification from 10th class-no fire protection—to 9th class, a step that in Mississippi reduces fire insurance rates 15 and 18 percent on the average.

Dale, the state Insurance Commissioner, said the impact of the new law in expanding fire protection in rural areas is already being felt rate-wise.

"An official of one of the major fire insurance companies told me his company will reduce its rates in Class 10 starting in January," Dale said. "I feel after a period of time you'll see additional rate reductions."

Gildea, who has traveled the state helping rural communities start fire departments, waxes philosophical over what they mean to the community. A volunteer fire department stabilizes the quality of life in the community, he says.

"Here you have people who are solving problems for themselves, but they can't do it without government assistance. Marrying those two factors is what we are here to do."

Coast Championship Pro-rodeo set for Aug. 4-6 at Coliseum

The Fourth Annual Mississippi Coast Championship Pro-rodeo will be held Aug. 4-6 in the Mississippi Coast Coliseum and will consist of three performances with seven events during each performance and featuring an Exceptional Rodeo Friday at 7 p.m.

The rodeo will kick off with a barbecue Thursday at 4:30 p.m. at the coliseum and the first performance will be the Exceptional Rodeo at 7 p.m. Friday, Aug. 4, and the Pro-rodeo at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Aug. 4 and 5, and Sunday Aug. 6 will be a matinee show at 2:30 p.m. which will feature the grand finale and closing ceremonies.

Of the seven events scheduled, bareback riding is the wildest and most physical. This is a spurring contest where the cowboy must make an eight-second ride with no stirrups and no reins to hold.

Cal roping, one of the rodeo's earliest events, is a times contest where a cowboy must rope a calf from horseback, then throw the animal to the ground and tie three of its legs together.

Rodeo's oldest event is saddle bronc riding, an exercise which demands near perfect timing and requires that the cowboy remain mounted on a wild bucking horse for at least eight seconds.

In steer wrestling, the cowboy leaps onto the steer's horns while the animal is on the run, turns it back, and wrestles it to the ground.

Team roping is an added event this year to the rodeo. In this event there are five things the team must do. The steer gets a head start, the header of the team casts his loop over the animal's horns, and turns off at an angle to slow the steer. The heeler moves in and ropes the rear two feet; when both ropers have connected they face their horses toward each other with ropes tight.

Bull riding, for many rodeo fans, is the most thrilling event as daring cowboys attempt an eight-second ride atop a massive animal with nothing but a rope to hold.

The traditional women's rodeo event, barrel racing, is a contest where the cowgirls race the distance of the arena maneuvering their horses around three barrels set up in a triangular pattern, not knocking over any of the barrels.

Pro-rodeo is a series of contests between wild cattle, wild horses, wild bulls and even wilder men. The men are PRCA cowboys.

The livestock is provided by Matt Dryden, owner of Circle D. Rodeo Company, Inc. and Circle D Ranch in Marianna, Fla. Considered to be the finest Pro-rodeo producers in the southeast by many, Dryden is excited about the Coast Championship Rodeo and guarantees that his stock will include "the meanest, rankest, most notorious rodeo animals available."

Sanctioned by the PRCA and WPRA, the Mississippi Coast Championship Pro-Rodeo is being sponsored by Budweiser, Coast Coca-Cola, Bayside Dodge, WLOX-TV 13, Sun-Herald Sports Department, Michaels in Moss Point, Johnny Joe's, Bryan Foods, Biloxi Hilton, Copenhagen Skool, Wrangler jeans, and Seagrams Crown Royal.

Inner qualities of 4-H'ers make winners at horse show

By Patti Drapala
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

The things that distinguish a winner from a competitor at a 4-H horse show aren't the trophy and the blue ribbon.

The 4-H members who win are the ones with confidence and a good attitude about themselves and their horses. They have won before they even enter the ring because they know what the horse will do. The goal of a true competitor is not to win the trophy but to display good horsemanship.

When Tim McBeath conducts horse clinics for 4-Hers and other young competitors, he puts a premium on horsemanship.

"Being able to lead your horse down what I call the 'most important' line of competition," said McBeath, who runs a horse farm in Moss Point, "is a good attitude and a good attitude is the most important thing in the ring."

McBeath, a well-known judge, says that a good attitude is the key to success at their farm. Many 4-H horse clubs across the state have asked McBeath to speak at their clinics. He also holds clinics at his horse farm where participants can learn a lot in a week.

What many of the young riders like about McBeath is that he is not just a judge but a teacher. He is always willing to help a young rider improve.

When McBeath speaks at a clinic, he always tells the young riders that they should be proud of their horse and that they should be proud of themselves.

RALPH MCGILL

Colbert's top rated comedian, many consider him as "Ralph McGill," one of the most troubled years of the 1950s and 1960s as the most prominent and influential Southern white opponent of racial segregation, and one of America's most revered journalists.

"Dawn's Early Light" Ralph McGill and the Segregated South at 10 p.m. Monday, Aug. 7 on Mississippi ETV explores how this editor of the Atlanta Constitution used his paper as a pulpit to preach about the injustice of segregation and the inevitability of change.

Burt Lancaster narrates this film profile as the voice of McGill, who used a distinctive blend of moral outrage and pragmatic moderation in his front-page editorial columns.

Prominent figures such as Julian Bond, Tom Brokaw, John Lewis, Herman Talmadge, Sander Vanocur, Andrew Young and others bring the era of the troubled 1950s and '60s to life through their vivid recollections.

parent from Franklin County. "He trains the child to control the horse."

Zimmerman's son Sean competes in 4-H county, district and state horse shows. "Sean's attitude and confidence has really improved since he's worked with Tom," Zimmerman said. "He's even thinking about becoming a horse trainer some day."

A competitor's attitude can influence the show's judge, and it's something that can't be disguised by a handsome horse.

"If you have a child who enters the ring and that child gives you the impression he or she really doesn't want to be there, it's hard to judge that child," McBeath said. "The judge only has a matter of a few minutes to form an opinion."

If a competitor displays a poor attitude, he or she won't get a good look from the judge. "You need to look equal no matter what the top of the class. A competitor with a good attitude and a good horse can instill that competitive persona."

"Horses understand a person that they're used to," McBeath said. "They can tell what the person is thinking by the way they're being handled."

When Mississippi's 4-H members have the confidence and attitude they need to show horses, they can compete with children all over the United States.

The better kids are competitive no matter where they're from and no matter where they go," McBeath said.

Predator control clinics to be held in state

The Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks in cooperation with the Cooperative Extension Service and Mississippi State University is holding two Predator Control Clinics Aug. 7 at the Holiday Inn in Grenada and Aug. 8 at Paul B. ## PRCC football squad reports to camp Aug. 10

Pearl River Community College's Mike Nelson said he and his staff are excited about the start of the 1989 football season.

PRC's head coach said the Wildcats will field one of the largest and quickest teams it's had since he arrived here four seasons ago. Coupled with that, the Cats will have 15 returning starters from last season's team, which posted a 6-3-1 record, narrowly missing a playoff spot.

However, he added the South Division will be stronger overall this year.

With 17 projected sophomore starters, the Wildcats have a good corps of experience to deal with the improved competition, but Nelson is concerned with the youth at the quarterback spot.

Eric Brister, the freshman who guided the team last season, will not be returning because of grade problems, and once again the team will have to search through the ranks of incoming freshmen for someone to take over the helm.

The players will report to camp at 3 p.m. Aug. 10, and practice will begin at 9 a.m. Aug. 11. Two-a-days will run through Aug. 18. The first three days will be spent in shorts and shoulder pads.

TRAITS OF AUTISTIC CHILDREN

The Louisiana Society for Children and Adults with Autism has published a checklist of 14 autistic behavior signs and symptoms. According to the society, no single item is significant alone for a diagnosis, but if a child exhibits seven or more of the traits, a diagnosis of autism should be seriously considered. The traits include:

- Difficulty in mixing with other children
- Acts as though deaf
- Resists learning
- Has no fear of real dangers
- Resists change in routine
- Indicates needs by gesture
- Inappropriate laughing and giggling
- Not cuddly
- Marked physical overactivity
- No eye contact
- Inappropriate attachment to objects
- Spins objects
- Sustained, odd play
- Stand-offish manner

Autism

Reaching Lizzie through patience, love, perseverance

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Lizzie is an engaging blonde-haired child with bright blue eyes, who turns many heads on a routine excursion to the grocery store.

Strangers smile and speak to her as they often do to attractive toddlers—only to meet with bewilderment as she avoids eye contact or otherwise reacts inappropriately. Lizzie is autistic.

Autism is a severely incapacitating lifelong developmental disability caused by physical disorders of the brain. Symptoms typically appear during the first three years of life and are four times more common in boys than girls. Approximately five in 10,000 babies are autistic.

Elizabeth Kelley Richardson was born four and one-half years ago to Eddie and Geri Richardson of Waveland. She seemed normal in every way until some months after her first birthday, when her mother noticed she was becoming increasingly distant.

"When Lizzie was 18 months old, she was sitting in the middle of my bed," Mrs. Richardson said. "When I began calling her, she would not turn her head. I thought she was deaf."

It didn't seem logical, though, because she would dash to the television set when a favorite commercial jingle would air. As her condition worsened, she became more self-absorbed—refusing to look at her parents or respond to them in any way.

Testing began at a New Orleans hospital, where her parents were told she was mentally retarded. The Richardsons sought help for Lizzie at the Long Beach Mental Retardation Center and were told she must be tested in Mississippi for treatment.

This time, results showed infantile autism as the two-year-old's diagnosis. Autism is diagnosed through observation of the individual's behavior, with more than seven traits exhibited as criteria.

For the next two years, the Richardsons endured the heartache of a beautiful little girl who could not be coaxed out of her own world. Various therapy measures proved costly and ineffective.

Richardson fights back tears when recounting the patience her son Jody, now 9, displayed in dealing with his younger sister.

"He would pour water in her hand and say 'water' over and over, time after time—with no response," she said. "One day she attempted the word—we all cried." Persistence pays off.

At age four, Lizzie was Grandpa" which pairs retired men in a teaching environment with pre-schoolers from Headstart and the Child Development Center.

Lizzie won his heart immediately. He began researching autism to develop a curriculum to help her express herself and interact with others.

As the Headstart program does not run through the ing, and autistic children often lose what they have learned," she noted. "She loves the girls—they are like her big sisters."

All three have found working with Lizzie to be a rewarding experience. "It has increased my patience," said Gagnon, "it has helped me improve my babysitting skills and to understand children better."

Elizabeth Richardson and Destin Black enrolled in the Bay-Waveland Headstart Program, which her mother credits with helping her learn to interact with others.

"I can't say enough about the teachers there," she said. "Lizzie is a full-time job. They would take turns caring for her, including the office staff."

She began to speak at age four, progressing slowly, but would rarely look someone in the eyes. Enter Brother Canisius Schell, a familiar figure at the Headstart center.

The 'retired' Brother of the Sacred Heart resides at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis, and is actively involved in numerous charitable projects. One favorite to date is "Project summer months, Brother Canisius planned activities for Lizzie with the help of three teenage girls, Destin Black and Heidi Hitt, seniors at Our Lady Academy, and Lauri Gagnon, who will be a freshman at Mississippi State University in the fall.

Each devotes an afternoon a week to teaching Lizzie simple tasks that come easily to other children, like jumping, stacking blocks and distinguishing colors.

"They opened up their hearts to her," said Richardson, who has been able to leave Lizzie in their care—the first time anyone outside of the family has kept her.

"I worried at first they would give up, because progress is slow and so frustrating," she said.

Black babysits five children during the day and still finds time for Lizzie. She and Hitt commented on Lizzie's progress—noting she can now distinguish red and blue and ride a tricycle, a prized possession given to her by Brother Canisius.

They have learned to keep commands simple and to always follow a command with the action.

"When we say 'let's go,' it doesn't mean in a few minutes," said Richardson. "It means right now. Routine is essential."

Richardson's goals are to heighten awareness of the disability and to increase acceptance of the handicapped and their families, "who just want to be like you and me."

Project Do: Elizabeth Richardson

Special to the Echo
By Brother Canisius

Lizzie is four and a half years old, and because of autism she has serious problems with her development skills.

For the past three months, 'Project Do' members Lauri Gagnon, Heidi Hitt and Destin Black have been involved in a therapy program for Elizabeth (Lizzie) Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson III of Waveland.

The therapy program is under the direction of Lizzie's mother and Brother Canisius, director of Project Do. Guidelines from the National Society for Children and Adults with Autism are being followed. The program is also reinforcing the achievements Lizzie gained while she was enrolled at Headstart this past school year.

The general goals of the volunteers are to make each day they meet with Lizzie a happier one—and also help her to lead a normal life as much as possible. These goals are being reached slowly and surely by love, patience, understanding and perseverance on the part of the volunteers and Lizzie's family.

Autism, at present, has not arrived to a point where it can be defined by anything but its behavioral symptoms, which are many. These symptoms show up very clearly in Lizzie's physical, social and verbal skills.

One of the greatest challenges in helping Lizzie is the fact that she cannot put her needs and wishes into words or sentences. She can, and does, repeat the speech of others even though she does not understand what is said. She will also repeat these words or sentences at odd times for no apparent reason. This is termed as "echolalia."

Developing motor skills is very important for Lizzie. Although she is lovable, outgoing and very active, there are many simple skills that do not come to her naturally as they do to other children her age. These have to be taught by constant repetition over long periods of time.

The volunteers are learning what situations will cause Lizzie to have tantrums. As much as possible these causes will be avoided. When that is impossible, the situation is handled with love and understanding.

Plans are in the making to invite students from the senior religion classes at St. Stanislaus and Our Lady Academy to become "big brothers" and "big sisters" to Lizzie during the coming school year.

Tips for exhibiting flowers, vegetables

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist

It's Show Time! The cry goes out and vegetables and flowers of all types, size and colors are brought in from gardens to compete for ribbons and cash prizes. Summer means county fairs, and fairs mean vegetable and flower shows.

This summer, just like last summer, some of the shows may be on the thin side because of the weather. Last summer just about everything dried up, and this summer it has drowned. Regardless, it's show time, so let's do the best we can. Here are some tips on exhibiting your vegetables and flowers.

When gathering exhibits, take a pair of pruning shears or scissors to the garden with you so the vegetables and flowers can be cut and not pulled from the plants.

Believe it or not, most vegetables should be exhibited with a short piece of stem attached. This goes for snap beans, lima beans, cucumbers and summer squash. Then you're tugging at one end to pull a vegetable from the plant and the plant's holding on from the other end, chances are you'll get part and the plant will keep part of the vegetable.

Cantaloupes aren't exhibited with a piece of stem because the stems come off easily as the melons ripen. Any cantaloupe with a firmly attached stem is a green melon. Watermelons and honeydew melons should have a short piece of stem.

Always harvest more than the exhibit calls for in case one of the exhibits gets damaged. If you need 12 pods of hot pepper, take about 15 to allow for damage, but exhibit only the correct number. Don't place green tomatoes (must have stems) in the same container with ripe tomatoes (no stems) on the way to the show. The stems on the green fruit can puncture the ripe tomatoes.

Stems and leaves are very important for flower exhibits, so be sure to cut flowers with long stems and healthy, clean foliage. Giant zinnias on tall plants must be exhibited with long stems. With some of the new, large-flowered, dwarf-type zinnia plants, this isn't possible. List the variety name bits then there is no chance of bringing something to show just because you have it. It's better to have nothing exhibited in a category than to have the judge disqualify your entry because it is of such poor quality.

Gardens

on the exhibit tag when possible.

Don't mix colors in a specimen exhibit. This applies to flowers as well as vegetables. Exhibit green, red or yellow peppers but not mixed colors on the same plate. If the exhibit calls for three marigolds, they should all be yellow, orange, white or bicolor but not one of each.

When an exhibit consists of more than one vegetable specimen on a plate or flower in a bottle, the key to success is to have them all as similar as possible. Also, take the time to count the items in your exhibits. If the entry calls for 14 pea pods, exhibiting 16 or 17 doesn't make it better. It is cause for disqualification or at the least the loss of one ribbon place.

Vegetable exhibits must be of edible maturity. This means nothing overmature or immature. Old, peeled heads of cabbage and green cantaloupes are definitely not for exhibit. Dried onions peeled down to tender, fleshy scales should be left at home along with dirty or green Irish potatoes.

Don't exhibit figs that can't be eaten off the exhibit plate, green pumpkins or zucchini squash large enough to be lethal weapons. All flowers should be fresh and unblemished and not on the downhill side of life. If you are proud of your exhibit

WOODCHIP INDUSTRY

'Farmweek' at 7:30 p.m., Monday, Aug. 7 on Mississippi ETV, examines the growing hardwood chip industry in Mississippi and investigates how the state's abundance of usable hardwood trees is making this a profitable venture for some farmers.

These hardwood chips are used in the production of paper products, including fine quality papers, and are finding a growing demand in the Far East.

Also on this edition, 'Farmweek' visits with a group of Quitman County area farmers and discusses a unique buying agreement in which they've become involved with a textile mill to produce a special high quality cotton, gin it in such a way as to protect the fibers and then sell it to the mill at an above-market price.

Food safety alert

As temperatures rise during the summer months, it presents a greater challenge to food safety. The commissioner for health affairs for the Food and Drug Administration reported recently that from 30 to 50 percent of all diarrhea cases in the United States are of foodborne origin.

The following suggestions can help you prevent foodborne illness in your family this year:

* Wash hands thoroughly in warm soapy water before preparing food. Wash utensils, cutting boards and surfaces that have come in contact with raw meat and poultry thoroughly. This keeps bacteria in raw meat and its juices from spreading to other foods.

* Foods should not be thawed on the kitchen counter. Any bacteria in food can multiply rapidly at room temperature to disease-causing levels.

* Refrigerate to keep foods safe. This includes all perishable foods. If meats and poultry will not be used in two or more days, they should be kept frozen and thawed in the refrigerator when ready to use. Refrigerators should register 40 degrees F and freezers at zero.

* Cook meats and poultry thoroughly. Visual danger signs are: red meat looks brown, poultry juices run clear and fish flakes when raked with a fork.

* When cooking foods in the microwave, read the manual carefully for recommended standing times outside the oven. This is important in completely cooking food. Use a temperature probe or thermometer as needed. Do not use a metal thermometer inside the microwave oven.

* Refrigerate or freeze leftovers promptly. Perishable foods should not stand at room temperature for more than two hours. Divide larger quantities so they can cool quickly. When serving refrigerated foods, heat to 160 degrees F.

Your family can enjoy the summer without the threat of foodborne illnesses if caution is used in handling foods.

Host family sought for German student

For the past several months, Karl, a 17-year-old boy from Germany, has been eagerly awaiting the day he will arrive in the U.S. to spend a year as an exchange student with his local host family.

Karl is scheduled to arrive in mid-August, however an unfortunate occurrence has left Karl without a host family. A local family had been interviewed and approved by ASSE International Student Exchange Program to host Karl. However, Karl's host family has regrettably had to cancel due to unforeseen circumstances. The host family is very saddened as they have already developed a fondness for Karl through letters that have been written back and forth.

This family may have the chance to host again, but Karl may never have the chance to come to the U.S. to live in an American family and attend an American High School.

Won't you please help make Karl's dream come true? If you are interested in hosting Karl, please call Gina Simms at (504) 469-0035 immediately or you may call ASSE's toll free number 1-800-333-3802.

When "we're having a heat wave," who wants to spend a lot of time in the kitchen? Not many cooks I know, how about you?

The solution, at least my solution, is to get a major part of the cooking over with at one session, then take it a bit easier on subsequent days.

That's far from difficult to accomplish just now, with our area supermarkets offering special buys on larger cuts and portions of beef, pork and chicken, for example.

If you pick up a boneless beef rump roast from National, you'll have a special dinner and some left over for hot PoBoys, with juicy gravy, or open-face hot roast beef sandwiches served with mashed potatoes—delicious!

Depending, of course, upon the size of your roast—and of your family, you may have some left for roast beef hash or some julienne slivers for a roast beef salad or chef's salad, stretching the beef with julienne ham and cheese.

'Coastlines' purchased by 'Coast Magazine'

Neil W. White III, publisher of 'Coast Magazine,' has announced the purchase of 'Coastlines Business Report.'

"A business journal is a perfect fit for our organization," said White. "We can build on the groundwork developed by 'Coastlines' and produce a top-notch business publication for the Coast."

The title of the publication will be changed to 'Coast Business Journal.' The format will be modified to include regular departments such as 'People on the Move,' 'Business News,' 'Marketing Your Business,'

'Business Calendar,' 'Tax News,' 'Incorporations,' 'Chamber Reports,' 'Building Permits' and 'Economic Indicators.'

The feature stories will cover Coast businesses, business people and business opportunities. 'Coast Business Journal' will be a monthly publication averaging 32 pages per issue.

The premier issue will be distributed on Sept. 15. Deadline for news for the first issue is Sept. 1. Any information should be sent to Lisa Monti, managing editor, Coast Business Journal, P.O. Box 1209, Gulfport, MS 39502.

'Success '89' symposium coming to New Orleans

'Success '89,' a comprehensive marketing symposium for small business entrepreneurs, will be held on Aug. 24 at the New Orleans Sheraton Hotel, 500 Canal Street.

The one-day symposium is the first in the fall series for the special training programs which are jointly sponsored by the U.S. Small Business Administration and the BellSouth Operating companies.

Co-sponsored by South Central Bell in New Orleans, 'Success '89' offers practical guidance for increasing a company's success from outstanding business consultants who are experts in their particular fields.

Symposium workshops cover such topics as advertising, publications, telemarketing, selling skills, customer service, direct mail, cash flow, and marketing plans.

More than 4,000 entrepreneurs have attended previous 'Success' symposiums held in the Southeast during the past two years.

In addition to 12 different workshops, participants attend a networking luncheon and afternoon reception at the symposium. The program also includes small business resource booths and exhibits offered by SBA and BellSouth.

The pre-registration fee is $89, with a charge of $110 at the door. Veterans are eligible for a $50 discount if they pre-register. For detail information, call toll-free 1-800-331-2355, ext. 23.

cook some in tomato sauce, some simply in lemon and herbs.

And, some I'll cook this way:

HAWAIIAN CHICKEN

1 can (16 oz.) pineapple chunks

1 cup soy sauce

2 cloves garlic, finely chopped

1 can pineapple juice

Oil as needed for browning

Corn starch as needed for thickening

6 fryer leg quarters (may substitute pieces as desired)

Marinate chicken in soy sauce and garlic overnight.

Remove, reserving marinade.

Brown chicken in scant amount of oil as needed.

To the marinade, add pineapple juice and pineapple, and cook over low heat for five minutes. Stir in just enough cornstarch to thicken sauce, then pour the sauce over chicken and bake in a 350 degree oven for 30 minutes. Serve over rice. (Six servings.)

Pick up some of those so-delicious bananas on special at Winn-Dixie and enjoy:

"FRIED" BANANAS

2 bananas

1 egg

2 Tbsp. ice water

Pinch of salt

Few drops lemon juice

2 cups cereal crumbs (as cornflakes)

Butter and oil for frying

Slice bananas diagonally, half-inch thick. Whip egg and water together with a fork, to which lemon juice and salt have been added.

Dip each banana slice into egg mixture, then roll in the cereal crumbs until well coated.

Fry in melted butter and oil

(1/2-inch deep) over medium high heat for just a minute or less, turning once. Drain on crumpled paper towels, and serve. (2 or 3 servings.)

Or, when the oven's on for something else, bake quickly:

GUATEMALAN BANANAS

3 slightly green-tipped

medium bananas, peeled

1/4 cup lime or lemon juice

1/3 cup honey

1/4 cup dry sherry

2 Tbsp. butter or margarine, melted

Dairy sour cream

Cinnamon

Place bananas in buttered shallow baking dish, and brush with lime juice. Blend honey, sherry and butter, pour over bananas.

Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) 15 to 20 minutes until tender. Serve warm with sour cream and a dusting of cinnamon. (5 servings.)

Or, taste the oh-so-juicy pears offered at National and Jitney Jungle and enjoy this dessert:

POACHED PEARS

5 pears, peeled, cored and halved

3/4 cup sugar

1/2 cup water

1/2 cups red wine

2 cinnamon sticks
Combine sugar, water, wine, cinnamon sticks in a large saucepan, and boil 5 minutes. Add pears and simmer, covered, for 15 minutes or until tender when pierced with fork.

Remove the pears. Boil down syrup until thick, then pour syrup over pears and refrigerate. Serve hot or cold. (Keeps several days.)

For a variation, mix peaches with the pears.

Perniciaro-Elmore

Jaffe Swetman Elmore of Biloxi became the bride of Nancy Joseph Perniciaro Jr. of Bay St. Louis in an afternoon ceremony June 24 with the Reverend Charles R. Johnson officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Joyce L. Swetman of Biloxi and the late Thomas F. Swetman. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Nancy A. Perniciaro Sr. of Waveland.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of ivory lace over tulle with a double-flounced hemline. She wore a headpiece of Stephanotis and baby's breath.

Micki Perniciaro of Bay St. Louis, sister-in-law of the groom.

Flower girls were Gina Perry and Michelle Perniciaro and Melanie Perniciaro, all of Bay St. Louis.

Mike Perniciaro of Bay St. Louis served as best man.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Bay-Waveland Jaycee Hall.

Assisting were Ricky Geoffrey, Sammy Perniciaro, David (Shorty) Karl, Nancy Nease, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Perniciaro, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Perniciaro, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bourgeois.

Entertainment was provided by Danny Perniciaro of Bay St. Louis, cousin of the groom, and Benny Sylvestri of Waveland.

On return from a wedding trip to Panama City Beach, Fla., the couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Hill-Boyes

Diamondhead Baptist Church was the setting for the June 24 marriage of Nancy Lynn Boyes of Long Beach and Michael Edward Hill of Bay St. Louis.

Rev. Paul B. Oglesbee officiated at the ceremony. Nuptial music was presented by organist Florence Holt and vocalist Peggy McBride.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Boyes of Long Beach. The groom's parents are Judy C. Hill and Braxton Lamar Hill of Waveland.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a blush pink gown of crystal organza, featuring ball gown sleeves and a sweetheart bodice lavished with hand-beaded schiffli embroidery. The full skirt was touched with roses, fluttering ruffles and hand-beaded schiffli embroidery, flowing to a cathedral train.

For her headpiece, she chose a blush pink and white wreath of organza roses and pearls. Blush pink and white satin ribbons framed her face and cascaded to her shoulders. The back featured a pouf and fell to elbow length.

She carried a silk cascade of white diamond roses and light pink organza roses interspersed with seed pearls, sparkling baby's breath and satin lily-of-the-valley.

Patty Wescovich of Long Beach was maid of honor. She carried a nosegay of silk pink roses and pink satin ribbon interspersed with sparkling baby's breath.

Kenny Durbin of Bay St. Louis, brother-in-law of the groom, was best man.

Ushers were Tony Boyes of Long Beach, brother of the bride; Anthony Prendergast of Bay St. Louis and Jimmy Jackson of Bay St. Louis, nephew of the groom.

Sanita Jetton of Long Beach, niece of the groom, served as flower girl.

Assisting during the reception at Diamondhead Community Center were Miss Tammy Cathers, guest register and punch; and Mrs. Melanie Davis of Long Beach, who served cake.

On return from a wedding cruise to Freeport and Nassau, Bahamas, the couple will reside in Pass Christian.

Jaycees to sponsor benefit car wash

The Bay-Waveland Jaycees will sponsor a benefit car wash for the Muscular Dystrophy Association Saturday, Aug. 5 at Merchants Bank in Bay St. Louis on Hwy 90 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Jaycees encourage all local officials to help them out for this worthy cause. Coast will be $2 for wash and $3 for vacuum and wash.

Caplinger-Davis

Mr. and Mrs. John Caplinger announce the recent wedding of their son, L/Cpl. Roger L. Caplinger to Gina L. Davis on July 15.

The groom is in the United States Marine Corps stationed in Quantico, Va. and the bride is a member of the U.S. Navy at the same location. They were married at the Free Will Baptist Church of Stafford, Va. in a military ceremony.

Caplinger is a 1987 graduate of Hancock North Central and is the grandson of Major and Mrs. Chester Curvey of Waveland. The couple will reside in Virginia.

Brignac-Smith

Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Maurice Brignac Jr. of New Orleans announce the engagement of their daughter, Denise Marie Brignac, to Dr. Rodney Wilson Smith, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Rodney Smith. The wedding will be solemnized in early September at the Chapel of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, with the Rev. Msgr. Henry C. Bezou, pastor emeritus of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church of Metairie, La. and Rev. Hill C. Riddle of Trinity Episcopal Church of New Orleans, officiating.

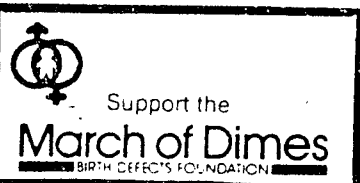

Miss Brignac, whose mother is the former Miss Janet Ann Perrault, is an honor graduate of the Academy of the Sacred Heart and received a bachelor of science degree in business administration from Louisiana State University. She was a member of Pi Beta Phi fraternity. As a sub-deb she was presented at the Major Pendergast Ball. She was presented at Bachelors Club and was chosen a maid in Prophets and Persia and Olympians Balls.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Arlington Perrault of New Orleans and Mrs. Edmond Maurice Brignac of Bay St. Louis and the late Mr. Brignac.

Dr. Smith, whose mother was before her marriage, Miss Helen Carol Heyer of Memphis, Tenn., was graduated from Isidore Newman School.

He is a graduate of Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge with a bachelor of science in zoology. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and the Bachelors' Club of New Orleans. He was graduated from the Tulane University School of Medicine and is in surgical training at Tulane University Affiliated Hospitals.

He is the grandson of Mrs. Carl Christopher Heyer of Memphis Tenn. and the late Mr. Heyer and the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leroy Smith, Ruleville, Miss.

Microwave seafood quiche keeps summer kitchen cool

Keep the kitchen cool and save time too, by cooking this elegant-tasting quiche in your microwave oven. To aid in even doneness from edges to center, be sure to begin cooking on full power and then reduce the setting.

SPEEDY SHRIMP QUICHE

6 servings
6 eggs, divided
1 1/2 cups cooked rice
1/2 cup chopped green onions with tops
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
3/4 cup milk
1 Tbsp. Dijon mustard
1/2 tsp. salt
1 package (5 to 6 oz.) tiny frozen cooked shrimp, thawed and drained
Paprika

In medium bowl, beat 1 of the eggs. Stir in rice until well blended. To form crust press rice mixture onto bottom and up sides of greased 9-inch pie plate. Cook on full power 2 minutes, rotating 1/2 turn after 1 minute. Sprinkle with onions and cheese. Set aside.

In medium bowl, beat 5 eggs. Set aside. In 2-cup liquid measure or bowl, combine milk, mustard and salt. Cook on full power 2 minutes. Stir in shrimp and cook 1 minute more. Slowly stir hot mixture into beaten eggs. Pour into pie shell.

Cook 5 minutes on full power, rotating 1/2 turn after 2 1/2 minutes. Reduce power to 50% and cook 4 to 6 minutes, rotating 1/4 turn two or three times to assure even cooking. Quiche is done when knife inserted half-way between center and outer edge comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika.

FLUFFY SCRAMBLED EGGS

4 servings
Micro-cooked scrambled eggs are especially tender and fluffy. You can cook and serve them in the same dish, too. Substitute your own favorite add-ins, if you like.

8 eggs
1/2 cup milk
1/2 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese with chives, cubed
1 jar (4 oz.) diced pimientos, drained

In 1 or 1 1/2-quart casserole, beat together eggs, milk, salt and pepper until blended. Stir in cream cheese and pimientos. Cover with lid or plastic wrap and cook on full power, stirring every 2 minutes, until almost set, about 6 to 8 minutes. If necessary, cover and let stand to complete cooking, about 2 minutes.

STUFFED TOMATOES

EGG PRESS
4 servings
Serve this colorful and tasty creation as a main dish for brunch or a side dish for dinner. Be sure to prick the egg yolks (or they may explode) and watch the eggs near the end of the cooking time, to avoid overcooking.

4 firm large tomatoes
1 tsp. basil leaves, crushed
1/2 package (5 oz.) frozen chopped broccoli, thawed
3/4 cup herb-seasoned stuffing crumbs
1/2 cup (2 oz.) cubed American cheese
1/4 tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. pepper
4 eggs

Remove stem ends from tomatoes. Scoop out pulp, leaving 1/4 inch walls. Sprinkle inside to tomatoes with basil. Arrange in circle in 9-inch pie plate.

In medium bowl, toss together broccoli, stuffing crumbs, cheese, salt and pepper. Fill tomatoes with broccoli mixture, pressing towards walls to leave a deep hollow in center. Break and slip 1 egg into each hollow.

Gently prick yolks with tip of knife or wooden pick. Cover with waxed paper. Cook on full power for 8 minutes, rotating pie plate 1/4 turn every 2 minutes. Cook on 50% power about 2 additional minutes, rotating pie plate 1/4 turn each 30 seconds.

Remove just before egg whites are completely set. Let stand, covered, about 1 to 2 minutes, if necessary, until egg whites are completely set.

Molpus elected vice president

Mississippi Secretary of State Dick Molpus was elected vice president of the National Association of Secretaries of State at the organization's national convention in Vail, Colo.

"I'm very honored by this vote of confidence from other secretaries of state," Molpus said. During the past year, he has been the organization's treasurer.

Association members are secretaries of state from the 50 U.S. states, Guam, Puerto Rico, American Samoa and the Virgin Islands.

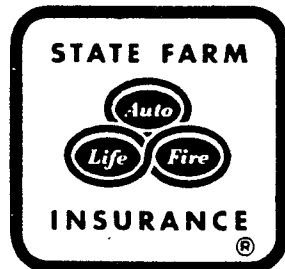

Since he took office in 1984, Molpus has revamped operations at the Mississippi Secretary of State's office. Records have been computerized and the agency has become financially self-sufficient returning early $3.5 million to the state's general fund since 1986.

"My colleagues across the country are aware of these achievements and have looked to Mississippi for innovative ways to improve their own operations," Molpus said.
